Chipmonk Chatter - From the Director

In a phrase, Pathfinder is on for 2021!

We'll be there for our boys, who need all the good of CPI more now than ever before.

Glenn and I – with our entire camp staff – wish all of you in the Pathfinder family good fortune, good health and good winter days, knowing the turn of a new year brings with it the excitement of a renaissance camp season ahead.

Summer is looking so good. Yes, we are all dealing with the challenges of an ongoing pandemic, of cultural upheavals churning this winter off-season. But just as Pathfinder staying closed in 2020 was best for our people, being open and thriving in 2021 is best now, for campers, for staff, for everyone at home sharing our camp's 107-year spirit.

We'll do Camp '21 safely and with smarts. Read our unfolding plans, here and on the web. Join our Zooms and reach me directly. Keep in touch so you can share the confidence in great preparations for a great year.

It will be an all hands on deck effort. And we'll do it right, because Pathfinder people work together like no one else. Because camp can surely come through this challenge, and because all Pathfinder kids need and deserve what a Pathfinder season means to them.

It means being active and outdoors. It means being reunited with friends and mentors. It means relishing the incredible beauty of our trip country setting. It means those precious feelings of screen-free independence, competence, contentment, comradeship. It means simple happiness.

It means a real, face-to-face summer of making memories that sustain us as we roll back into off-season lives, often spent looking forward to that next Pathfinder summer of memories.

How many of us know the feeling of this photograph, a misty scene at the Motorboat Dock? It's a light-poem, about arrival and departure at Pathfinder, about being together with your people, full of the promise of what's to come, or a poignant departure, already planning to return again to the special place we make together.

Chipmonk Chatter once more gathers these Pathfinder story lines, our photos, our memories, our plans and people. It previews our coming summer and remembers summers past. Enjoy!

Noonway,
sladds

Front Country Adventures

*Even short trips take Pathfinder Island boys right into the renowned interior of Algonquin.
How about these 2021 camper adventures in what is our 'Front Country'?*

A Walk to Old Growth of Our Own

A short paddle along the Source shoreline reveals cedar, black spruce, white pine and ancient rock shoals. It all leads into Loon Point Bay, where you can gently watch Loons keeping their nest on the tiniest island of the lake. At the nearby mainland shore, a barely visible trail where Moose browse the tree-line like gardeners. Walk into the bush here, and up Bear Mountain to find ancient pine and hardwood trees you can barely wrap arms around. These giants survived the axes, saws and fires of more than a century, creating a forest so shaded, gorgeous and complex you have to know more. We walk lightly on the land here, before making our way back to the canoes and the tailwind float home.

Trout In Our Back Yard

If you can rise before the sun, sip cocoa and munch a bagel or bowl of cereal by headlamp, you can paddle a glass calm Source to reach Ouse or Owl Lakes for a morning ambush mission for Splake or Speckled Trout. The coolest, quietest time of the day. Moose, beavers and turtles are unphased as you paddle by on the way. Pack sunscreen, ice-water and a big snack along with the tackle. Head home to in time to enjoy afternoon Optionals.

Step Into A Tom Thomson Painting

Follow the route of the camp railway west to Potter's Creek. Launch the canoes and glide through shallow curves filled with the stumps of giant white pine felled 150 years ago. Pass under a bleached wreck of a timber log road bridge and land at the grassy remnants of Mowat, the Gilmour brothers' famous company timber gambit of the 1890s. It's a perfect spot to try your hand at watercolor landscape sketching. Canada's most famous painter, Tom Thomson, lived here for seven years creating his most famous works. He died here, too, under circumstances still debated today. Search the woods behind Mowat to find the gravesite few ever see. If you're lucky the Gray Jays, spirits of those who once lived here, will come from the spruce trees to share your trail gorp and the story of Thomson's final days. You're back on the island in time for a swim, dinner, and the evening game.

A Spirit World Revealed in Red Ochre

Whether you bike or paddle to reach Rock Lake, downstream on the Madawaska from Source headwaters, you'll find massive sheer rock walls diving into deep Algonquin waters, a placid beach shoreline tucked in at the outlet of the river, and a cliff with a water entrance and chimney crawl up to an overlook of the huge lake. Deep in the rock are shoreside caves where the cool feels amazing on a hot summer day, and evidence hints at earlier people resting, sheltering or spirit-questing. On the cliff face at eye-level are pictographs, and high above the rock forms the furrowed brow and stately face of a bear watching the water. A paddle across Rock brings you to an abandoned summer estate, an ideal site for a cooked shore-lunch at the foot of a cliff trail leading to Booth's Rock and a limitless summit view.

GLM Style - A Rip Round The Horn

The legendary canoe trip Mics and Chipps do in three days can be mastered in three hours by our Ottos and AAs. Fast paddling and portaging in Pathfinder canvas canoes takes you through a landscape of small lakes and trails of the Madawaska headwaters country, where first peoples lived undisturbed for millennia until Algonquin's earliest white explorers crept this way into an unknown wilderness. Soon, it would become a route for loggers, railway men, road surveyors, and elegant city tourists. Trip tough in the final leg, up and over Found Lake portage and down the Camp Road. Dive into Source at the Car Dock, sprint home for a soap-bath and kick back in the Upper Kingdom before supper.

Bike-Paddle-Hike the SkyMount

Paddle through Tanamakoon into Cache, follow the bays to the Madawaska River outlet and dam, leave the boats and walk up into the forest past tumbling creeks and mossy cliff-faces. Through a high draw between hills and up a long flight of primitive trail steps is the route to a cliff-top panorama of south-west Algonquin, with Bear Mountain on Source Lake the furthest peak in view. Lunch and a rest up here is full luxury, followed by a down-hike along a new route to the lower Madawaska stretch. Here, Pathfinder trail bikes are lined up in the deep woods, waiting riders to cruise them along the abandoned rail bed to Mew Lake airfield, and a shuttle back to Source for a free swim.

Pathfinder Nostalgia...

1st Row: I wonder where the packed bags and trophy/pennant picture is taken? Not on the island. Rail stop? A staff man headed home? • Boxing was a staple in-camp activity from the start. Outdoor matches with ring ropes. • Boys on greased pole, this is likely at the Cache Lake Regatta, but this was a Pathfinder swim meet item as well. Not sure what the actual task is. Obviously a crowd-pleaser.

2nd Row: A trip is at a rail stop, modeling their portage loads. Note the woolen clothing, knee-length pants with high socks, and duffel bags for camper rolls / tents, complete with longer tumplines. Bigger lads could carry 2-3 of these at once. • Staff man demonstrating the ideal 'pitch and ditch' campsite set up with canoe placed close at hand, and the hand-cut tent poles and stakes. Your boot heel was stomped around the tent to create a small ditch to carry rain away. • Bugling on a stump; includes poem written by then-Park Superintendent Mr. Millar.

4th Row: The O.A.P.S. Railroad became the Grand Trunk RR during the earliest years. Here a Pathfinder canoe trip loads up for a shuttle 'truck' to another Park region. Note the Pullman Car Porter in uniform, the elite of railroad travel in those days, and the first black American trade union. • The chimney is original. Earliest building where Dining Hall stands today. The Ballfield later became Stalker Park due to erosion. Game umpire is owner Herman 'Chief' Norton (right), watching a long ball.

FAQ

Jan. 2021

Happy New Year, Everyone!

How we all have longed to have our Pathfinder days once again. Good news - Camp is on for Summer 2021!

Before we know it, Campers will be running around the Island, the swim dock and towers will be rockin', canoes and kayaks will fill Source Lake, bikers and hikers will be venturing out to explore, and canoe trips will once again be paddling out to live in the beautiful backcountry.

What will the camp look like next summer? Many important factors remain uncertain at this writing, but some facets are safe to predict. We'll keep you in touch with the latest developments all through this coming winter and spring. Meanwhile, what basics are in store?...

Is Pathfinder definitely operating for Summer 2021?

Emphatically Yes! All residential camps in Ontario are currently busy making their preparations. Enrollment at Pathfinder is quite strong already, with over 150 Early Birds and many new sign ups.

The Ontario Premier's office ordered residential camps closed in May 2020, so it's a major development that government is preparing to reverse this closure order during the winter, rather than delaying the decision until spring.

The Ontario Camps Association (OCA) is the accrediting body for residential camps. The OCA's COVID Task Force is busy writing professional guidance for 2021 camp programs, similar to the extensive planning going on at our kids' schools. Another plus is that a special team from SickKids Hospital in Toronto is advising the OCA camps guidance, and Ontario Health is welcoming the collaboration. They are determined to help camps open safely for this summer.

Will the US – Canada border be open this summer?

We're very optimistic that the border will begin to open in spring. In fact, vacation home owners and summer campers and staff may be among the first groups to be given opportunity to enter Canada and head north. Pathfinder is right on the front lines of working with Immigration to gain the necessary approvals this winter.

Will Pathfinder sessions be the same as ever?

For now, the short answer is yes. We are enrolling all sessions, including our One-Weeker Mic Mac and Two-Weeker sessions. We'll keep up to date on any Ontario measures which might ask camps to limit their mid-session new arrivals.

What will camper age groups & staff ranks be?

If you were a Mic Mac, Chippewa, Cree or Ottawa camper in 2019, you will advance to the group you would normally have reached in 2021. So, if you were age 10 for Summer 2020 you'll be a Cree this coming summer, and so on. We'll adjust the tripping so it's easy for campers to catch up the lost season.

If you were signed up to be a One-Weeker Mic-Chipp or Two-Weeker Cree in Summer 2020, you can make that choice again in 2021 even if you would be advancing to an older age group.

Any AA campers for 2020 will be AAs in 2021. They'll get their long trips, and so will boys who become age 15 for Summer 2021. Both ages will be having their career pinnacle AA adventures. These groups are now fully enrolled. Exciting expeditions ahead!

The CIT class of Summer 2020 will be CITs during Summer 2021. They'll get their certifications and training trips as normal in July. This means that CITs next summer will be age 17, and they will quickly join the age-18 guys as functioning Second Men. Staff hired to be Second Men or Headmen in 2020 will advance in rank normally for 2021. For example, 2020 guys who would have been veteran Second Men will be Headmen next summer. The camp's directors will design the staff program to allow everyone to get the training and experience they missed in 2020, even as their camp rank advances normally.

How will everyone prepare to come to Pathfinder?

Pathfinder staff and campers will be well prepared for their camp time. All the current vaccination efforts will be helpful, but a vaccine will not be required for Pathfinder campers and staff to forge ahead this coming summer.

Here's what we know as of now. We'll likely use a combination of prescreening, brief home quarantine and a negative test to help get everyone safely up to camp. Our motor coaches and airline pick up services will still be available, with some new measures.

Once at camp, campers and staff will join in cohorts and masking. Cohorts will be groups of campers and staff in a 1:2 ratio. The cohorts will be living and playing in smaller, distanced groups, to help get our sessions going in good health. Within a cohort, everyone can live and play without masking and other measures. When cohorts interact, the masks and practices will be used.

During this period of cohorts, camp life will otherwise go on as normal, with the in-camp program as usual and many day trips and short canoe trips. We'll have enhanced health services, so that there is nursing staff and special areas of camp just for folks whose symptoms must be cleared as non-Covid, while everyday bumps, bruises and medications care are handled as usual by the nursing staff in the camp Infirmary.

Sleepage and dining may be spread out, with some al-fresco meals in the rotation, and with smaller dining groups using the DH, perhaps in two seatings per meal. The famous homemade fare at Pathfinder will be as great as ever.

What happens if everyone is healthy and well after the observation period?

As further testing and observation show our camp health, it will become possible to consider the bubbled camp community 'clean,' so that the larger community can enjoy daily fun and canoe trips, getting back to familiar routines. A lively program of in-camp sport, activities, and signature surprises will combine with trip training and adventures in the Park and beyond. To achieve this well-deserved and much-needed sense of Pathfinder normal, Camp will control total enrollment size, close access to visitors, and forego staff travel away from the Park. Our island home will be our safe haven, the back country our playground.

Pathfinder & Indigenous Algonquin

There is a lot more to the story...

A warm summer afternoon of Optionals. Christine sharing artifacts of ancient Algonquin life in our woods. Having Christine as our indigenous educator creates such an enriching experience for all our boys. With her partnership, we've created camp's land acknowledgement with staff, sponsored a portion of the annual Whitefish Lake 'Gathering of Our People' and created two scholarships for Algonquin boys to attend Pathfinder. Christine also makes visits to lead staff training and share council fire/trip report events.

From Christine...

For many, our love for Algonquin Park stems from the time that we've spent on trip, traversing portages, paddling lakes and rivers, and enjoying our time on campsites along the way. If you take a moment to think of your favourite campsite, what does it look like? Does it have a sandy shoreline to land your canoe, speckled with trees that offer shelter, and maybe a great view of the sunset? Wherever your favourite campsite might be, there is a good chance that it is a place where people have lived for thousands of years – long before Algonquin Park existed.

No matter where you go on Turtle Island (North America), including Algonquin Park, the land has been home to people for millennia. Indigenous people like me continue to love and care for this land in the steps of our Ancestors.

Any time that you're spending time outdoors, including the next time that you're on your favourite Algonquin Park campsite, I encourage you to take a moment to think a little deeper about the history of the place that you are in. Whose territory am I on? How do they continue to engage with this land? How am I able to care for this place?

As an Omamiwinini Anishinaabekwe (Algonquin woman), and the Indigenous educator for Camp Pathfinder, I look forward to sharing with you and your families the long history of this land and the Algonquin people, our relationship with the land, and the responsibilities that we all hold in taking care of this place we love so much.

There is so much more to share with you about Algonquin Park's history. I hope that Summer 2021 will bring the opportunity to share some of these stories with you and your family. Until then, I am sending each of your families love and light!

What's In A Name?

Gone from Canadian woods camps are the remnants of Indian appropriation, such as drumming, dancing or regalia. Same at Pathfinder. But important traditions of respect remain. One is our age group names. They are some storied Canadian indigenous cultures, including Mi'kmaq (Mic Mac), Chippewa, Cree, and Ottawa. Click to read more about us!

Providing campership to children in need, allowing them to attend camp in Algonquin Park, ON

Making a donation to the Algonquin Campership Fund is quick and easy, tax-deductible, and 100% of your gift is devoted to camper awards!

Our Mission

- Provide camperships to children in need, allowing them to attend a canoe tripping camp in Algonquin Park.
  - Scholarship criteria includes financial need and extraordinary circumstances in a camper's life.
  - Emphasis on children in western New York (children may reside anywhere in the US)
    - Awards may cover up to 100% of camp costs for a qualifying family.

Campers as individuals and in selected school groups can benefit from ACF support to attend Northway and Pathfinder. In our 2019 season, 2 girls and 6 boys attended Northway and Pathfinder as ACF campership awardees.

ACF has also developed highly successful outdoor education partnerships with three WNY schools in low-income urban centers: Wilson High School and World of Inquiry in Rochester, and City Honors HS in Buffalo. In 2018-2019, these Rochester and Buffalo schools sent 400 students to Pathfinder scholastic programs with help from ACF awards. Several notable alumni of these school partnerships have gone on to work on the Pathfinder guide staff.

"Thank you for giving me the opportunity of a lifetime that I will never forget. It was the best summer I could have possibly had with the best group of guys...a life-lasting memory for me, and for the friendships I have made."
